Since 2005 she has been appointed as Artistic Director of Arturo Toscanini Foundation (FAT) in Parma of which she is still at the helm. (www.fondazionetoscanini.it) She begins the artistic reorganization with the repositioning of the two orchestras under FAT: ORER (Regional Orchestra 'Emilia Romagna) which becomes a service orchestra for operas in various theatres of the region and for all the educational activity; and Filarmonica Arturo Toscanini (quality brand) that performs an intense concert-symphonic activity and participates as a reference orchestra at Verdi Festival at Teatro Regio in Parma. Directing FAT since 2005, she led the foundation to have an intense cultural activity, creating a concert season of 18 concerts, called “Nuove Atmosfere”, which is held every year in Parma at Paganini Auditorium (780 seats). In 2007, only two years after its birth, all the tickets for the concert season were sold out, and the second round of season tickets was proposed to accomodate the numerous requests. The two rounds (season tickets as well as single ones) are sold out so far.
